

PICTURE BOOK RESOURCES- HOW RUDE!

Conversation starters:

- What do you think will happen in this story?
- What do you think rudeness means? Have you ever been rude?
- Has someone ever been rude to you and how did that make you feel?

Retell the story – Dot and Duck’s story is told in dialogue, which means it’s perfect for acting out. Set up your own tea party or make your own tea set from card or paper. Rehearse your lines so you can role-play the story with a friend or grown up.

Re-imagine the story – What if the title of the story was How Polite? What would happen?

Can you imagine a new plot?

Rewrite the story - Pick your own adjective and write your own Dot and Duck adventure as a graphic novel. Here are some words to get you started:

brave cheerful confused curious disappointed embarrassed excited fantastic friendly generous ignored impatient important interested jealous lonely angry bored surprised proud frustrated silly uncomfortable worried stubborn shy satisfied safe
relieved peaceful overwhelmed
tense loving calm

Illustrating different emotions: You can tell a lot about how someone feels by their eyes.

Try making a sad, happy, angry, confused face in the mirror and notice how your eyes change. Try drawing some of these on a scrap piece of paper. Ask someone if they can guess which emotions you have shown.

Make your own 'Duck'– using a paper bag or something similar make your own Duck! Think carefully about how your duck will feel. What might have happened to make your duck feel this way?
